GRAIN RATES WEST.

If there is one thing more mysterious and confusing to the mind of the ordinary individual than the time table of a great railway system it is the freight tariffs of the same system. For while the passenger time tables and the passenger fares run according to some rule or rules the freight tariffs are governed by no rule at all. It is true that a certain tariff sheet contains certain definite statements, which statements may be evolved by expert assistants from the tangle of figures printed on the page, but after a person has at enormous labor and pains reached a conclusion according to the figures before him, he frequently finds that the sheet he has been calculating from has been replaced by one of more recent issue, so he is still governed in parts by one of previous issue, or the particular case with which he desires to deal is governed by some special arrangement, or what is more likely than all some item of arrangement which he has not considered in his calculation, because not specified in the sheet before him, is considered by the company, and is sufficient to knock all his painful and elaborate calculations endways. The only way to make sure of the tariff on any certain article is to ship it, or have it shipped to you and wait for the bill. At least this is the conclusion arrived at by this great journal after a long and tedious attempt to arrive at a comparison of rates charged on produce shipped from and to certain points in and out of the Canadian West. So that whatever figures are here after given must be accepted not as infallible authority so much as approximations made for purposes of argument. Those who are interested may verify them if they please.

In dealing with this question of present rates on produce over the C. P. R. and in dealing especially with the rates charged between Edmonton and the Pacific coast it would be obviously unjust to base a comparison on the rates charged for service over a longer distance. That is to say it would be unfair to ask for the same rate per mile between Edmonton and Vancouver that is charged between Edmonton and Montreal, provided of course that the latter is a reasonable charge. There are many reasons which make it a proper policy for a railway company to base their charges on a calculation of the more miles of haul the less rate per mile. Neither would it be altogether fair to demand that the same rates should be granted on imports that are acknowledged to be necessary and good business on exports. Nor would it be fair to ask that rates on what might be called merely transient trade in produce should be made as low as those on the export of the produce of a whole country. On the other hand it is only fair to ask that where like produce has to be carried over like distances, and where the traffic is of like importance in the development of the country affected—even if the volume of trade is not for the time being as large, and although it is to a different market—like rates should be charged. It is on this point that we in Edmonton claim that we are being unfairly treated by the C. P. R. company, and that by that unfair treatment of this part of the country its development is being retarded and the company itself is suffering financial loss, not through over greed, for they are making nothing out of their high rates, but because those in authority persistently refuse to recognize the facts of the case and persist in rating the outgoing traffic of this district merely as transient instead of rating it as staple. As nearly as the BULLETIN can make out from the information sheets in hand from Edmonton to Vancouver is about 860 miles. The special tariff for this distance on grain, flour, oatmeal, millstuffs, flaxseed, oilcake, potatoes and hay in car loads is 50c per 100 pounds. The special tariff on like commodities in car loads from Moose Jaw to Port Arthur, which is about 829 miles, as appears from the same authority, is 23 cents per 100 pounds, a difference of 27c per hundred against Edmonton in reaching the market as compared with Moose Jaw in reaching its market; for although Port Arthur is not really a market point, inasmuch as it is a point at which there is unlimited competition for further transport of produce eastward it stands in the same position as a market to all the producing region from Moose Jaw eastward. If a rate of 23c per hundred from Moose Jaw to Port Arthur is a fair rate to the railway company, a rate of 50c per hundred for the distance from Edmonton to Vancouver is entirely out of reason, as the results of the past two years have amply proved. Of course it may be said that as the route between Edmonton and Vancouver lies through the mountains, the extra cost of haul is justification for the higher rate. This argument is not used in the case of freight or passengers from St. Paul to Seattle crossing the mountains but the same, and therefore it should not be used in the case of freight crossing only the same mountains. As a matter of fact the heavy grades through the mountains are in favor of west bound traffic and not against it. Another point that may be mentioned is that the bulk of the produce actually carried from Moose Jaw east is wheat, which being worth more cents a pound than oats, barley or vegetables, which would be the chief exports of the Edmonton district to the coast, will bear a heavier freight charge than these coarser and less valuable products. As is well known the region between Winnipeg and Moose Jaw, a distance of about 400 miles, taking in the country north and south, is what produces 99-100ths of the outgoing freight traffic of the C. P. R. It is from this region that the railway makes its money. If the rates in this district are not high enough the company is simply losing money by operating the road. As a matter of fact this is far and away the most profitable part of the whole system. And the settlers along the lines there may be brought in evidence to show that the export rates charged there are still far too high. Taking it altogether it must be admitted that the export rates now given over the railway there are as high as the company can charge with a due regard to what the traffic will bear. If that is the case it must be plain that double these rates charged on Edmonton freight to its natural market is more than the company needs to charge to make a fair profit and more than the traffic can stand. It may be said that the wheat region from Winnipeg to Moose Jaw should be considered as a whole, because Moose Jaw gets the benefit of the long haul rate on which Winnipeg loses. But even if we take the rate from Winnipeg alone, which has the shortest haul to Port Arthur and therefore pays the highest rate per mile, we find that Winnipeg pays a rate of 17c per 100 pounds for the 431 miles to Port Arthur. This on the 826 miles from Edmonton to Vancouver would give a rate of about 33c per hundred pounds, exactly was is offered from Edmonton to Port Arthur, a distance of 1271 miles. It is surely not unreasonable to ask that freight should be carried 826 miles west at the same rate as it is carried for 1271 miles east, and even this would give us an advantage over present rates of 17c per hundred, or a reduction of one-third. What that reduction would mean in giving this section of the Northwest a push on the road to full development can be easily understood by every one living or doing business here.

All that we ask is that we be given the same opportunities over the railway which the country paid for and is still paying for as other parts of the Northwest are given and acknowledged to be entitled to. If we cannot get it from the railway company we should appeal to the government and demand the exercise of the authority possessed by it to fix the rates on a reasonable basis. We ought to know whether the money that has been paid by Canada towards the Canada Pacific railway has been paid to secure the development of Canada, or to give low railway rates to the people of the northern part of the United States.

FAR FAMED EDMONTON, N.W.T.

The following letter from a member of the Prince Edward Island delegation who visited Edmonton recently, has been handed the BULLETIN for publication.

Having for past years read glowing accounts in government pamphlets, and private letters from friends, about the productiveness of soil, advantages and great resources of the Territories—which I must confess in common with others in the Maritime provinces, I doubted the truthfulness of—to satisfy myself and report to others, I left P. E. Island on the 8th of September. I arrived at Indian Head, and after going through the country found the crops very fine. Thence I came to Edmonton, ten days ago, and during that time I have busied myself in travelling through farms, and estimating quantities and qualities of grain of all kinds. I must say that the grain exceeded my anticipations. Practically speaking the fields are a solid mass of grain; not in specially favored places, but chiefly all alike; and the little labor required to produce the same is astonishing. A ten acre field the crop of which I saw stacked, of which I measured four stacks "Red Fife No. 1," averaging 27½ yards in circumference and 16 feet high.

The Edmonton district is the best locality I have seen, grass, crops, wood, coal and water considered. Pioneers of 10 and 15 years standing deserve credit, as it is evident they were men of ambition and pluck. It is owing to their exertions in developing the country that it has come to what it is to-day. In a few more years, when they will snuff up their buildings, and surroundings, and trim up the farms, they can, I feel assured, enjoy the comforts and luxuries of life as fully, if not more fully, than those in the eastern provinces under the most favorable circumstances.

It is obvious to anyone that nature has done its part; but there are a number of minor barriers at present standing in the way, which man can easily overcome. A bridge is badly needed on the Saskatchewan river at Edmonton; more railway facilities are needed; reasonable freight rates are absolutely required; and that settlers should get all the timber they need for building purposes gratis, as I notice fires are making havoc in the timber, which if not manufactured soon will be wholly useless. All the provinces should work in harmony, having in view to build up a large province of Canadians in the Territories; directing their attention more to home than foreign fields for immigration.

EDMONTON EXHIBITS.

The following letter regarding our Edmonton samples is very satisfactory, and shows how much better we could have done had we been on the ground sooner.

ALMONT, October 4th, 1893.

MR. EDITOR.

SIR:—We arrived in Ottawa September 24th and on the 25th our samples were moved to the exhibition grounds by the C. P. R. where they had a space fifteen feet long, six feet wide and twelve feet high reserved for us. We had thousands of people visit us during the week. They were delighted with our samples and hundreds of them asked if they were not grown on some experimental farm. They thought it impossible for such crops to be grown by every farmer in Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan. Our samples were placed beside the Prince Albert exhibit, which made ours look so much better, as the farmers said our samples looked to be more of a natural growth with the life left in the straw. Our beets and turnips were far the best on the ground, but our other vegetables were not up to the mark as they were more or less wilted. It was not decided where we would go from Ottawa to exhibit. So I went to Montreal on the 28th and made arrangements with Mr. McNicol for transportation of car, and passes up to the 31st of December to go to any point we wish on the C. P. R. We are exhibiting to-day in Almonte where we also have been granted a space of twenty feet long, ten feet high and five feet wide. Mr. T. Munier will leave on the 5th with a box of samples for the Eastern provinces. Mr. Long and myself will go west to the following exhibitions: Smith's Falls, Owen Sound, Dundalk, Woodbridge, Grand Valley. This will be about our last exhibition as there are so many exhibitions coming off at the onetime. There are a great many people talking of coming to our country in the spring, as crops have been destroyed by the wet season. There are hundreds of acres of grain rotting in the fields. It has been so wet that the farmers were unable to use their binders or mowers and had to cut their crops with the scythe. Some of the farmers are drawing the grain out and spreading it on high ground in order to save it. Potatoes also are rotting in the ground, and the tops were cut off three weeks ago by the frost. Mr. Stovel, the Prince Albert delegate, is not going to exhibit their samples any longer than to-day. They have been moving their samples around in boxes and they are more or less destroyed. I will write you later on and give you a full account of our trip.

Yours truly,

J. L. PORTER.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

D. McPhadden, who with Dave D. Reid left Edmonton for Johannesburg, South Africa, last fall, writes to his brother J. R. McPhadden, that he is on his way to Mashona land, still further into the interior. Evidently the outbreak of natives which has since occurred was expected at the time of his writing. The following is the letter:

PETERSBURG, August 15th, 1893.

DEAR BROTHER:—I take this opportunity of letting you know how we are getting along. We are now about 230 miles out, without anything of note occurring except our fun hunting game, such as buck. We have seen no dangerous animals yet but will soon come in with them. A row had occurred between the Matabele and the chartered company before we left Johannesburg, which made things look like war. We thought that the first in would stand a good chance of doing something; but we have been away three weeks and it has not broken out yet, but when the ceremonies now going on are over it is likely to go on in earnest. It is rumored that Lo Benguela, the chief of the Matabele, has got half his stock across the Zambesi, and is preparing for a stubborn war. His fighting men are estimated all the way from 20,000 to 30,000 men, but 3,000 to 4,000 is likely to be nearer the figure. They are of the Zulu tribe and are reckoned the best warriors in South Africa. Already about 600 horses have left this place for Mashona land. They are being gathered in all directions for the move. Fifty arrived yesterday and the buyer is still out. We are starting for Fort Tuli this afternoon, expecting to get there before the war breaks out. We could sell out and join as volunteers at $10 a day and found, but we would have to sell out our outfit at a loss of about £40, which we don't like to do. We are now about 150 miles from the Matabele border and have then to travel 25 miles to Fort Tuli. This 25 miles is where we might have trouble, but we will wait till an outfit gathers and then go through. The country we have passed through has been rough in parts and in others is very fine. There is some fine farming land. But the Boer is a poor farmer, a shiftless, lazy man who depends more on his rifle than on his acres. So far we have travelled alone and took the sporting road. We saw a few bands of buck, all the way from 30 to 100 in a band; also a few parran, a kind of prairie chicken, wild guinea fowl and partridges of various kinds and a great variety of birds of different colors, blood red, green, etc., parrots, cockatoos, and others. The principle trees are the "Wakum beechy" or wait-a-bit, and other thorny trees of the same species. The trees are very much like apple trees; very few that a stick over eight feet long and six inches in diameter could be taken from. We struck what is called the bush veldt 25 miles from Pretoria. It is thin bush and prairie like that around Edmonton. The trees are not unlike the gray willow, only they are covered with thorns. I don't remember if I told you anything about Pretoria. (The capital of the Transvaal republic). It is a snug place with fine streams running through it and ornamented with fine shade trees of the gum and willow species. The government building is a fine structure of good workmanship; three stories high, and is pointed out by the citizens as the finest building in South Africa. I would not be surprised if they are correct. No more at present as I am in a hurry. You must excuse the scribbling as two of us are writing at the same time on my satchel held upon our knees. Give my best respects to Stanley and enquiring friends. Address Fort Salisbury, Mashona land, South Africa.

Carried unanimously.

SUPREME COURT.
Tuesday.
Town of Edmonton vs. D. C. Robertson.—Appeal by plaintiffs from magistrate's decision. Defendant was charged with an infraction of a by-law of the town of Edmonton in that he hauled lumber from one point within the town to another point within the town without having a license for the team which did the hauling. The evidence showed that the hauling was done from a raft moored on River's bar near the electric light works above low water mark, and that Robertson's house was standing in the town when the wagon was being loaded from the raft. The contention of the town was that the municipal boundary extended to low water mark. The defence contended that it extended only to the top of the cut bank near the electric light works. The ordinance of incorporation says that the boundary runs along the north bank of the North Saskatchewan. The distinction was drawn by the defence between the right of a riparian owner and those of boundary merely, claiming the word boundary means something definite and well defined which in this case was the cut bank. His Lordship held that the defendant was not guilty of an infraction of the by-law and that his contention as to boundary was correct. The appeal was dismissed with costs against the town. N. D. Beck for the appellants. S. S. Taylor for the defence.

H. B. Co. vs. Michel Plant.—Action for amount of account $214. Defendant disputed the account and counter claimed $224. The counter claim was withdrawn and judgment given for plaintiffs with costs. S. S. Taylor for plaintiffs. J. C. F. Bown for defendant.
Wangler vs. F. B. Karan.—Action for amount of an accepted order of $70. Defendant not appearing judgment was given for plaintiff with costs. S. S. Taylor for plaintiff.
Lloyd vs. Gilmer.—Action for value of a plow. Defendant contended breach of warranty as to quality. Judgment for plaintiff with costs. S. S. Taylor for plaintiff. N. D. Beck for defendant.

Queen vs. Thurston.—The charge was assaulting a member of the mounted police force while in the discharge of his duty, in August last. The case was tried by the judge without a jury and the defendant acquitted. N. D. Beck for the crown. S. K. Taylor for the defendant.
Wednesday.
Queen vs. Antoine Ratelle. The defendant was charged with stealing a mare and colt, the property of T. G. Hutchings, and branding them with his brand. The defendant contended that the animals in question were his own which had been lost for about a year, when he found them near the Horse Hill and afterwards branded them believing them to be his own. The case was tried without a jury and the defendant acquitted by the judge on the ground that an criminal intent had been shown. The question of the ownership of the mare and colt was then tried. The judge ordered that Mr. Hutchings retain the animals. N. D. Beck for the crown. J. C. F. Bown for the defendant.
Watson vs. A. Macdonald & Co.—Action on account for $333. Defendants claimed set off for full amount. This case occupied the attention of the court all day and will be taken up again on Saturday. S. S. Taylor for plaintiff. N. D. Beck for defendant.
